The Double Red Duke: another stylish Cotswolds Bolthole

The Double Red Duke, Clanfield, Cotswolds

The latest opening from Country Creatures, a collection of Cotswolds inns run by husband and wife duo, Sam & Georgie Pearman (former owners of the wildly successful Lucky Onion group), is its most ambitious to date. A romantic 17th-century wisteria-clad coaching inn has been converted into a sleek retreat with 19 individually decorated bedrooms, a warren of snug sitting rooms and an open-fire kitchen. To instill a homely feel, guests will be able to order from the single menu (specialising in grilled meat and overseen by Richard Turner, of Hawskmoor and Pitt Cue fame) and eat wherever they choose. Design is British-focused: expect handmade baths and sinks from Kent-based Catchpole & Rye and intricate wallpaper from Lewis & Wood.
